CAMELLIAS: Ready to Burst Into Billions of Blooms ...

PURITY

Symmetrical, double flowers of large size and snow-white purity. Upright, vigorous grower. Often 6 inches across. Very popular white.

DEBUTANTE

This is the same posy a boy squanders his allowance on at the florist to get just THE one for his best girl. You'll have basketfuls of delicate pink fully double flowers and a handsome evergreen shrub to boot. E-M.

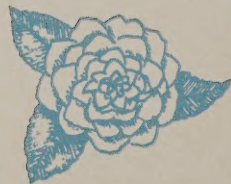

KUMASAKA

The kind the lady of the house likes to float in a low bowl when company's coming. Large loose double rose-pink flowers with golden stamen showing in the center. As if that weren't enough, they're fragrant, too. M-L.

This is one shrub that's dormant when it's in bud and bloom. That means if you come and get 'em right quick, your home can be the showplace of the neighborhood in a big hurry. Even if the blossoms weren't so spectacular, you'd like the plants for their glossy evergreen foliage and conservative growth habits. Ask about camellia hedges. All you need is a shady place and a smidgen of care. KEY: E—Early, M—Medium, L—Late.

UNTIL FEBRUARY 28

POPE PIUS IX

You almost need sunglasses to look at these — they're so dazzling. Large double red — one of the best. M.

CHANDLERI ELEGANS

Folks who know camellias best always put this one near the top of the list. Soft rose with white markings. E-M.

Meet The New 1957 All-America Roses

You'll be prouder than a bride with her first baked alaska when the neighbors stop to admire these prize-winning beauties.

GOLDEN SHOWERS

1957 AARS Winner, Pillar-Climber
Grow your own sunshine! Self-supporting pillar rose grows 8 to 10 feet with showers of golden flowers from early spring through late fall. Or train it as a climber on a trellis or a fence. So pretty everyone who comes by will be tempted to pick one. $3.00 each.

WHITE BOUQUET

1957 AARS Winner — Floribunda
Frosty white clusters of gardenia-like flowers with a sweet spicy fragrance. In a border with their contrasting dark green foliage, they're as refreshing as snowflakes in June. $2.50 each.

CHRYSLER IMPERIAL

Hybrid Tea
Most high fallutin' of the red red roses. Impossibly big flowers up to 5 inches on long sturdy stems. Long-lasting cut flowers. $2.50 each.

MOJAVE

Hybrid Tea
Someone snatched the magic of a desert sunset and painted it on this lovely rose. Glowing apricot-orange with overtones of nasturtium red, scarlet and vermillion. Tall upright plant. $2.75 each.

TIFFANY

All-America selection in the hybrid tea class for 1955. The long, pointed buds are a deep phlox-pink with golden shading at the base. $2.50 each.

PEACE

Hybrid Tea
Among the real big-wigs in the rose world, this is thought by many to be the world's finest rose. Large double flowers—often clear yellow—sometimes only yellow at the base shading to lighter tone and tinged with a delicate pink. $2.50 each.

Nothing Equals a Beautiful Flowering Tree In Spring
